

HOW TO MEASURE FOR NEW COUNTERTOPS

With pencil, paper and a tape measure, you can easily measure your own countertops to get an estimate for new countertops. Here's how to get started.

1. Sketching your countertops – begin by making a rough sketch of your existing countertop layout on a piece of paper.
2. Measuring length – For each section of counter, measure along the wall from one edge to the opposite edge and record this on your sketch. Do this for all sections. When you reach an edge where the countertop ends, mark on your sketch if there is a wall, an appliance or just open at that end.
3. Measuring width – measure from the back of the wall to the finished front edge. Record on your sketch
4. For island or peninsula countertops – simply measure length and width. If there is an area for seating at the countertop, measure the length and width of the part that overhangs and indicate this on your sketch.
